Summer Sound Study

What is it?

Michigan Tech is offering a collection of classes for students interested in sound design. These classes cover the basics and more of sound as a storytelling tool and emotional manipulator. Students will complete significant hands on projects that develop their artistic and technical skills in sound. Classes will develop skills relevant to Theatre, Film, TV, and Music production.

What is the schedule?

The summer session is broken into two shortened semesters. The first track of classes runs from May 10 through June 24 and the second track runs from June 28 through August 12. Students may take classes in one or both semesters.

What are the requirements for study?

This summer semester is designed for students without prior experience working in sound. However, some of the classes do have pre-requisites. The second track FA 3740 Recording class requires students to have completed the first track FA 3730 Sound Design class. If students have taken a sound class at their university they can contact Christopher Plummer (cplummer@mtu.edu) to count that class as the pre-requisite. FA 3530 Music Theory II requires students to have completed Music Theory I. If you have taken Music Theory at your university and are having trouble registering contact Christopher Plummer (cplummer@mtu.edu).

How do I apply?

Seats are on a first come first serve basis. Students enrolled at other universities need to apply as a one semester guest student: <http://www.mtu.edu/registrar/students/transfer/guest-app/>

Is there housing?

On-campus room and board is available to students staying at MTU for the summer. If you plan to attend any classes at MTU and wish to stay on campus, please contact Lisa Moyle lgmoyle@mtu.edu, (906) 487-2682 as soon as possible for information on rates.
